Idaho Falls Fiber Network, the city's community-owned, cutting-edge internet network, has reached a milestone with the completion of construction. Every home and business in the city now have access to affordable, reliable internet. It's the only 100% fiber-optic network in town.

The infrastructure was designed and built with future generations in mind, ensuring Idaho Falls remains at the forefront of modern, robust, and future-proof internet delivery.

We continue to exceed our take rate projections every year by signing up over 35% of the available households in Idaho Falls, and this is just the beginning! Our goal is to ensure every resident of Idaho Falls is connected to this fast, reliable, and affordable high-speed fiber internet network.

THE COMMUNITY OWNED ADVANTAGE

Idaho Falls Fiber is owned and operated by Idaho Falls Power. Idaho Falls Power and Idaho Falls Fiber are not-for-profit entities, owned by the City of Idaho Falls. That means the broadband network is community-owned and operated to benefit the community. As a city-owned enterprise, revenue received from the service does not go to corporate profits, it's reinvested to keep costs down for all network participants.

We're encouraging more residents to sign up for Idaho Falls Fiber because increasing our customer base allows us to hold prices flat or even lower prices while offering even better services," said Idaho Falls Power and Fiber General Manager Bear Prairie. "Additionally, this model keeps more money in our citizens pockets, supports our local economy, and is a source of community pride.

Delivering better internet started with building a better network. With an investment of nearly $40 million, we built the network in only four short years despite a global pandemic, supply chain issues, and severe inflation. We planned ahead and purchased most of the materials for the network before inflation kicked in following the pandemic. Here's what we built for you!
